REAR ADMIRAL MERRY DEAD AT WASHINGTON

Result of a Stroke of Apoplexy on May 1

Entered Navy From the Merchant Marine in the Civil War

REAR ADMIRAL JOHN FAIRFIELD MERRY.

News was received in Somerville yesterday of the death late Monday night of Rear Admiral John F. Merry at the Naval Hospital, Washington. Death was the result of a stroke of apoplexy which he suffered May 1 at the New Willard Hotel in that city. He was removed to the hospital a few days after receiving the stroke and steadily failed. With him at the time of his death was Mrs Merry. They had spent the Winter in Honolulu, returning to Washington late in April.

Admiral Merry's Somerville home, where he had spent his time when on shore duty for 45 years, was at 142 Highland av.

John Fairfield Merry was born March 5, 1840, at Edgecomb, Me, son of John and Sarah A. Merry. He attended the public schools till the age of 17 when he went to sea in a merchant ship. He became chief mate of the clipper ship Edward P. Stringer of New York in his early 20's. That ship foundered at sea, but the crew was saved.

He was next first mate of the Wandering Jew on which he visited Gibraltar at the time when the Confederate cruiser Sumpter was blockaded there and abandoned by her commander. Merry wanted to take some of his crew and seize the Sumpter, but his captain forbade it.

Soon afterward, in 1862, his cruise ending in Boston, Merry went to Washington, was appointed assistant acting ensign in the Navy and ordered to duty on the U. S. S. Morse in the James River. He was soon advanced to acting master and transferred to the Osceola of the North Atlantic squadron.

The Osceola was on blockade duty for awhile and then assisted in the attack on Fort Fisher. Merry led a detachment of 70 men in a charge on the fort, and was so severely wounded that he was obliged to stay at home three years, during which the war ended.

After the war he was taken into the regular Navy as ensign and served four years on the Atlantic station, being advanced to master and lieutenant. In the early 80s he was made a lieutenant commander and assigned to the Tallapoosa, which was sunk 32 years ago, while under his command, by collision with a coal schooner.

After three years in command of the Marion in the North Atlantic, he served from 1889 to 1892 as executive officer of the Wabash, receiving ship at Charlestown Navy Yard. In 1892 he took command of the Massachusetts training ship Enterprise for three years.

In 1897 he was appointed to command a gunboat on the Asiatic station. He remained there one year, then went on blockade duty on the coast of Cuba during the Spanish War. Soon afterward he was invalidated home. The next year he became commandant of the Naval station at Honolulu. While there he was appointed captain. He was retired with rank of Rear Admiral on reaching the age limit in 1902.

The Admiral's first wife was Nancy J. Winslow of Damariscotta, Me. They were married in 1862 and divorced in 1903. In 1904 he married Mrs Etta Cora Reynolds of East Somerville, who survives.

The clubs to which he belonged were the Army and Navy, Washington; Union, Boston; and Central, Somerville.

Daniel Wakefield died at the hospital at Togus Monday. He was 76 years old.
